Our teams have actively worked to design this Interactive Code of UPC texts, intended to allow IP professionals to anticipate their strategy serenely.

Founded in 1867, Casalonga is a European group of more than 120 attorneys-at-law, patent and trademark attorneys, lawyers, engineers and administrative staff, with offices in France and Europe and an international network of correspondents.

At the heart of innovation, Casalonga has been developing for years digital tools designed to facilitate its client's projects and to assist them in protecting and defending their intellectual property rights (creation of tools for preserving evidence of use, budget management, the UPP Unitary Patent application allowing the easy comparison of costs depending on whether or not the Unitary Patent has been chosen, etc.).
